SUBJECT: The Terrorism Intelligence Challenge

On reading through this paper on "The Terrorism Intelligence Challenge" by the Critical Intelligence Problems Committee, I noted some recommendations which I think should be pushed. They are as follows:

- Terrorist education in CIA seems to be behind Army and Air Force
  - Review of liaison relationships focussed on potential for improvement,
  - Development of a new cadre of specialists in counterintelligence
  - One or more specialist teams to go around reviewing liaison relationships and developing patterns in training for better coordination
  - Particular attention to coordination methods as between HUMINT, IMINT and SIGINT
  - NIO concentrated solely on terrorism.

This is something to be kept under constant review.
